Reflections from the Rectory

*Dog Days bright and clear
Indicate a happy year;
But when accompanied by rain,
For better times, our hopes are vain.*

The last days of July into mid-August are often called the dog days. Heralding the warmest time of the year when Sirius the dog star rises above the horizon in the northern hemisphere. The traditional rhyme above reminds us that fine weather at this time of year was traditionally considered a blessing. Now of course with the anxiety of global warming and drought in our gardens we wish for rain.

There is no doubt in my mind that the summers are getting warmer but there have always been fluctuations in the weather and next year we may bemoaning too much rain. In this area we are about to enter a hosepipe ban and for those of us keen on the garden we will have to face up to the fact that not everything can be watered and nurtured.

There is a limit to the control that we have over our environment and our lives for that matter. That is not a reason to be complacent but we are well advised to worry about what we can change and achieve and not waste energy on things we cannot control.

As we face the challenge of climate change most of us can only support initiatives that strive to reduce the impact of human activity on our environment. But there are many little things we can do such as making sure we only boil enough water for our immediate needs – not filling the kettle for one cup of tea, which I am sometimes guilty of.

It is not only climate change that looms as challenge. We are faced with an economic crisis and again we should reflect on what we can do to help others, just as many responded to the need to support refugees from Ukraine. Within in the church community we are generally quite good at supporting local charities but I fear that there will be many more in our immediate area in the coming months who will face real financial hardship.

I commended a charity called Acts 435 to those in church recently. It is aimed at helping people with various and specific needs and its great strength is that donations go directly to those who require support. It is worth having a look at their website acts435.org.uk

But however we respond to need let us first consider the things we can do, whether little or more far-reaching and leave the rest to God.

Churchyard Working Party Saturday 27th August 10.30am

We are organising another working party in the churchyard as we did last year. There are often little jobs that need attending to and anyone who can help is welcome. This year we hope to scythe at least one of the wildflower areas at that time. We will be offering beer and sandwiches in time honoured tradition. Please let Jonathan know if you can attend so we have some idea of numbers. revdjonathan@btinternet.com

Arts Season launched

Winchelsea Arts has launched a seventh season of concerts at St Thomas' running from September 2022 to May 2023.

A Ukrainian theme runs through several of the concerts which will see the return of Misha Galant who played so movingly at the fundraising event at St Thomas' at the start of the conflict.

Highlights of the year include a Venetian Christmas Concert by Candlelight in December and the return of Marcio da Silva and the Hastings Philharmonic Orchestra in May. The season starts with a cello and piano recital on 3rd September given by Alison Moncrieff-Kelly and Stephen Coombs.

Tickets for individual concerts cost £20 but you can get all six for the price of four with a season ticket - £80 for an individual subscription (£150 joint).

Ukraine Reborn

Preparations are well advanced for a Concert of Words and Music at St Thomas' on the afternoon of Sunday 2nd October. Internationally-renowned cellist, Raphael Wallfisch will play and the narrators will be Emilia Fox and Freddie Fox.

All three are giving their services free and the object is to raise funds to support the medical needs of injured and traumatised children of Ukraine, and the St Nicholas Hospital for Children Lviv, through Action for Humanity.

Tickets cost £25 and will be available from the Winchelsea Arts website. winchelsea-arts.org.uk

Michael, Lucy and Charlotte in Krakow

Aid for Ukraine - a personal story

Shirley and Jonathan Meyer write: We are very proud of our lovely and dynamic eldest daughter, Charlotte, who felt she had to do something personal to help the situation in Ukraine, rather than just donating money. Charlotte's colleague, Lucy, had a Ukrainian contact who lives in the UK and had been arranging aid trips.

They were told that what was most needed in Ukraine were toiletries and medical supplies but particularly trucks and four-wheel drive vehicles which would cope with the poor roads in war torn areas.

Undaunted, they made a plan to buy a second-hand vehicle, fill it with supplies and drive it all the way over to a rendezvous in Krakow, Poland. Along with two colleagues from work they started fundraising.

As a family, we must thank all the generous people of Winchelsea who donated towards these funds which made the whole plan possible.

It was very exciting getting everything underway and when they finally reached their target her words were "Oh, crikey! I've got to do it now!"

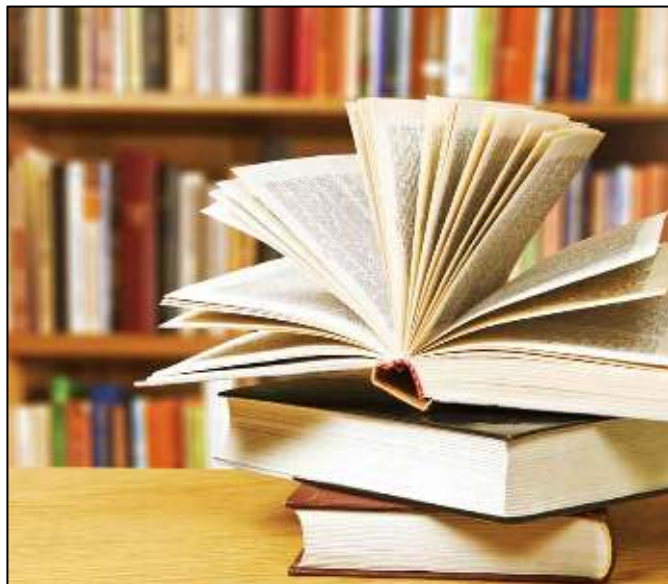

A local contractor in Wiltshire came up with the truck and supplies included toiletries, food, blankets, sleeping bags, sanitiser, nappies, baby formula and many other supplies.

They managed the journey from Wiltshire to Krakow, which took only 48 hours, by doing a driving relay.

The truck being used by resistance fighters in Ukraine.

Once again, thank you for your ongoing generosity to help this war torn country and enabling young people to make a difference.

Books welcome

Howard Norton has been running the second-hand book stall at Church Market for a good while now. During lockdown it was impossible to store new stock but now we are up and running again, more books are welcome.

If you have modern hardback non-fiction or fiction in good condition that you'd be willing to part with so that we can sell them in aid of church funds, Howard would love to hear from you.

Update on St Richard's

Against the background of the intended sale of the building, the Church continues to be used on an occasional basis for secular and religious purposes.

The building is not being neglected and it is intended to rectify the structural issue with the south gable end, which I mentioned in my last update. Pleasingly the insurance company has offered significant help with this and it is likely that work will be undertaken in August or September. It is expected to take five days to complete and will involve the erection of scaffolding and some vegetation clearance. The cost to the PCC is likely to be less than £400.

The other matter that has to be resolved is the fate of ashes that have been interred over the years adjacent to the building. We are currently preparing to apply for a faculty to remove all the cremated remains from St Richard's and re-inter them at St Thomas's.

The Registrar is guiding us through this process. One of the key elements will be making sure we have made every effort to contact the relatives or next of kin of those whose remains were buried at St Richard's.

Through local knowledge and contacts we have traced around 20% of those involved. You will find the names of all the people whose relatives have not yet been traced at the very end of this magazine. If you have any local knowledge in this respect please contact the Rector.

We will be posting local notices and advertisements in the local newspapers. It is not clear how long this process will need to take at this stage but it is hoped that we can meet most of the requirements by the autumn.

While these matters proceed, I again assure residents that I would be very pleased to receive their views on this, or any other matter concerning St Richard's.

Jubilee Time Capsule

On the occasion of the Platinum Jubilee of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, St Thomas' C of E Aided Primary School, held a celebration picnic on the school field. Following two years of the Covid-19 pandemic, the lockdowns and class bubbles, it was wonderful to celebrate as a whole school community.

In the week prior to the picnic all the classes, (which are named after buildings in the town); Rookery (Reception & Year 1), Greyfriars (Year 1 & Year 2), Armoury (Year 3 & Year 4), Castle (Year 4 & Year 5) and Mariteau (Year 5 & Year 6) learnt about Queen Elizabeth and some of the many events, inventions and landmarks that occurred during her 70-year reign.

This culminated in a fantastic art exhibition to which family, friends and the Mayor of Winchelsea, David Merrifield, were invited. The pictures in this time capsule are from the picnic and exhibition. At this time, there are 133 pupils on roll and 19 members of staff.

Also included in this time capsule are:

A fidget toy, (popper) these are very popular with children at the moment (Armoury class suggestion)

A school PE t-shirt (Castle class suggestion)

A Gold Award – 6 children from each class are chosen for an award for great work, excellent behaviour and attitude, showing a Christian or British Value.
(Greyfriars class suggestion)

A copy of our school prayer (Rookery class suggestion)

Postcards of Winchelsea (Mariteau class suggestion)

This time capsule was buried on Monday 4th July 2022
by Mr David Merrifield, Mayor of Winchelsea.

Paper marbling workshop

The first workshop of the new Winchelsea Art and Craft Group took place on 6th July in the New Hall and was run by Shirley Meyer. There were ten participants, all eager, fully aproned up and ready to give it a go.

The topic was marbling and Shirley demonstrated two different techniques of marbling paper. One involving plain tap water and the other using starch thickened water. The plain water method used thinner oil based inks and yielded more subtle results.

The thicker more viscous inks gave a stronger and more defined end result. We all tried both methods and hugely enjoyed the task. We were all pleased with our results. Thank you to Shirley!

The second workshop , on mixed media, took place on 3rd August.

Residents Association AGM

WRA's first Annual General Meeting will be held on Saturday 20th August at 11am in the New Hall.

Winchelsea Anniversaries

325 Years Ago

It was in 1697 that Celia Fiennes visited Winchelsea and left us an account of that visit. Her first view of the area came as she gazed out from the top of Rye Hill.

She saw the sea 'with a great tract of land on each side that is choked up with sand, which formerly was a good haven for ships. The sea does still come up to Rye town as yet but it is shallow and the Castle which stands a little distance a mile is also left of the sea.

This is Winchelsea Castle [as Camber Castle was known for 200 years] but all between it and Winchelsea is nothing but quagmire and marshes, drained in some places by ditches.

Celia Fiennes continued her journey on horseback along the Udimore Ridge and crossed the Ferry Bridge to Winchelsea. There she remarked that it had once been a large place with 'Thirty-six (sic) large squares of buildings'. Now she saw mostly remains of walls, churches and halls.

She rode up the main street, saw the regular intersections and commented, 'but elsewhere the grass grows now where Winchelsea was, as was once said of Troy'. There were very few houses and she thought the mayor, jurats and freemen must make up the majority of the inhabitants'. Nevertheless, 'Mr Mayor's house' and the parsonage receive favourable comment.

Her pessimistic view of the condition of the harbour was confirmed the following year when visiting commissioners came to the conclusion that there was no way the harbour at the Camber could again be made useful for the navy as it had once been and gave detailed reasons, drawing attention, among other things, to the eastward drift of the shingle, the sandbars, and the extreme shallowness of the haven.

It was Celia Fiennes who, in the same year, drew attention to a tradition that 'If the Lord Mayor of London meets the Mayor of Winchelsea, the Mayor of Winchelsea must have precedence'. This almost certainly dates from the later thirteenth century when Lord Mayors of London had been behaving in a way that gave much offence to the monarch.

London's mayoralty was therefore withdrawn for fifteen years with the city directly governed by the monarch. During the same period Winchelsea's mayoralty continued uninterrupted as it has done now for almost seven hundred and thirty years.

August and the cyclical nature of nature

Shirley Meyer writes: It is August now and our wonderful swifts will be leaving us soon for their long flight back to Africa. I will miss them so much. They are such a big part of summer in Winchelsea. Even during the pandemic when the skies were “silent” they came back to give joy and entertainment. Statistically though, swift numbers are down. According to the RSPB the UK has seen numbers plummeting, with a 53% decline between 1995 and 2016. We must continue to work hard, as a community, to encourage them to flourish.

Winchelsea is a great pro-active community already. People have joined together in a large variety of groups, each with a common cause. As a close -knit community Winchelsea residents rely on and look after each other. Along with friends and family groups we can re-discover the meaning and truly wonderful feeling of working as part of a good team to achieve something of significance, like protecting declining species.

Personally, I feel really grateful to have been accepted here so readily. As a wildlife enthusiast since I was young, it has been a privilege to be given the opportunity to develop my love of plants particularly, by collaborating with interested people on the Biodiversity Project in the churchyard.

At first, the possible changes such as stripping turf, were seen as a big step into the unknown but the first year has been successful overall and feedback has been excellent. Moving on into next year, planting and maintenance will need constant adjustment.

The project has now come full circle. We started defining the circles with yellow string on 25th August 2021 and almost a year to the day we will start harvesting on 27th August this year. The grasses and flowers will be cut and left for about two weeks to dry and release their seeds. Then we will need help with the raking!

In the earth plants will rest. Soil will re-balance ready for next year. It will be the quiet time. The circles will look flat and uninteresting for a while but take time to reflect on what they have meant to us this year.

At their height, they were a beautiful living picture of creation, attracting many and varied insects, butterflies and moths (all those important pollinators we need and without which we would have no food). Pollinators are fascinating in themselves and a small group of enthusiasts, calling ourselves Winchelsea Wildlife, have been monitoring them over the last year.

We hold regular moth trap events once a week over the summer, identifying and counting species. We have also started regular bee walks around Winchelsea with similar aims in mind. What we are doing here is already a start to protecting and nurturing our small area of the global ecosystem.

Hold these pictures in your mind and you cannot help but look forward to next year in anticipation of new growth and the return of the swifts.

Autumn Show

Winchelsea Garden Society will be holding their Autumn Show on Saturday 10th September in the New Hall.

Categories include flowers (with a separate section for dahlias) floral art, vegetables, fruit and handicrafts.

The committee are asking members to start thinking what they might enter and everybody is encouraged to enter something. Entries don't have to be perfect - and given this summer's weather, probably won't be.

Chachalaca

From a very young age I have been used to collecting words. I have a Greek father who rejoices in using words like "assination" and "fiduciary", so these words slip easily in and out of my speech. Unfortunately I've never had the heart to tell him that these are Latin words.

Last Second Wednesday, I learned a lovely new word, this time courtesy of Michael Howard our National Trust Ranger; Chachalaca. Unfortunately my chances of being able to casually drop this word into a sentence are very limited. It's one of the 850 species of birds that you can see and hear in Costa Rica. It's also known as the Chicken Bird, and it forms part of the Ortalis group, from the Greek for 'hen'. My father would be pleased.

Just one of the amazing facts that Michael dropped into his talk. He illustrated his lecture with the fabulous photos that he had taken on his journeys, ridiculously true to scale models, but most fun of all, recordings of their song.

And another fact; did you know that the iridescent plumage of the Hummingbird has more colours in it than all other birds put together. Well you do now, courtesy of the Second Wednesday Society.

There was a last day of school feel to the afternoon. With this year's Speaker No2, Bill Doherty and Speaker No5, Paul Youlten, also in attendance as we finished off the final part of our programme before the summer break.

But life in Winchelsea doesn't stop just because we do. August 6th had the Church Market in the morning and Film Night in the New Hall in the evening. The WRA put on that fabulous classic, The Italian Job. The Summer Fête is on 13th and the Winchelsea Residents Association hold their AGM on the 20th.

Because it's been such a dry year midsummer colours have come early to the landscape. Gone are the fresh greens and perfect lawns. Bleached yellows, golds and bronze dominate the parched views. The wildflower circles in the churchyard perfectly reflect this August palette.

Second Wednesday returns on the 14th September, when we start the second half of our 2022 programme. Until then, enjoy the rest of the summer.

I'll finish with not my words, or my Father's, but with those of our former neighbour, Henry James, "Summer afternoon; summer afternoon. To me those have always been the two most beautiful words in the English language".

WAS Walks

Winchelsea Archaeological Society is continuing its programme of free guided walks on Saturday afternoons. Each one starts at the Town Well at 2.15pm and last about 60 minutes. All are welcome.

A further walk, entitled 'Winchelsea's Architecture and People', is now planned for 20th August and 17th September. This sticks to the north-east part of the town. A longer walk entitled "Winchelsea and Pilgrimage" is now planned for 8th October. It will go to the southern side of the town.

These free walks are to introduce both residents and visitors to new perspectives on life in Winchelsea, and to encourage them to take a cellar tour, and visit the Museum or Church.

Our apologies that some dates have changed. As both trees and vegetation have grown during the summer, it has become apparent that some important views are only visible when the grass is low or the trees are not in leaf; so some walks are best done either earlier or later in the year. We have also tried to avoid a clash with the Fete and the Garden Society Autumn Show.

Together with the first two walks - 'Castle Field and Iham' and 'Winchelsea in the front line of the nation's defence', we now have detailed material describing four one-hour walks, and are considering whether or how they should be continued in 2023 - any comments would be gratefully received.

Please email Andrew at andrewscottb@aol.com or Merv at mervynhack@sky.com if you are interested in joining the Society, helping on the Committee or the research.

You would be most welcome as the greater the membership, the more we can do.

Andrew Scott

Winchelsea New Hall

We are pleased to announce that the cloakroom and entrance conversion to include a new accessible toilet, floors, and fixtures is now ready for use. We thank you all for your patience and understanding during the completion of these works.

Apart from the many varied activities on offer, we continue to encourage new uses of the hall. It was exciting to see the stage being used last month for real theatre, when we hosted the performance of a new play “S.O.E.”, whose central character is Vera Atkins, one of Winchelsea’s past celebrity residents. It was an excellent production, well attended and appreciated by all.

With another new venture, this month saw the showing of The Italian Job, which we hope will prove to be the first of many films to be shown in the New Hall on its fully mechanised screen. This was organised by the WRA Social Committee in conjunction with the New Hall, with all proceeds being split between the New Hall and the Rye Food Bank. We wish the group well in all future projects.

Look out, also, for information in this magazine about a new Yoga class beginning at the Hall in September.

The New Hall has seen a number of significant improvements over recent years with a view of attracting a wider range of events. The planning of our next major project is already underway, which will focus on the upgrading and conversion of the present two main toilet areas, and increasing the stage and backstage facilities, including the stage lighting. We hope this would provide exciting new facilities for use by and for the Winchelsea community.

Finally, advanced notice of our A.G.M. which this year will be held in the New Hall at 10am on Saturday 8th October. At this time we are seeking new committee members to help take the Hall forward, and to replace members who are stepping down. Please inform us of your interest.

Robert Holland, who has been instrumental in New Hall improvements since moving to Winchelsea twenty years ago, is now leaving the New Hall Management Committee. I think we can say that the hall would not be here now had it not been for Robert's direct involvement. Robert has taken on many roles as committee member (Booking Officer, Chairman, and Trustee), and will no doubt help with guidance if asked.

Carol Scoines is stepping down from the committee after eight years. Since joining the committee she has served as Secretary, maintained oversight of the weekly inspection of the hall, been responsible for many hall refurbishment projects, and has been absolutely key in the success of the last four summer fetes.

All good wishes from the New Hall Management Committee.

Endurance Race for Macmillan

Amelia (Milly) Voice, whose family lives in Pett Level, is competing in an international 100km ultra trail endurance race in Switzerland in August, the prestigious SwissAlps100, in order to raise funds for the charity Macmillan Cancer Support and specifically, the Macmillan Horizon Centre in Brighton.

Macmillan is giving wonderful support to her mother, Pamela Voice, who is currently undergoing treatment for an aggressive breast cancer, as indeed it is to Michael and the whole family. Both Michael and Pamela are known to many in Winchelsea.

Milly is by profession a teacher; she is also an experienced trail runner both in the UK and in Europe, achieving success in several races, including being in the top ten women and 1st British woman in the UTMB OCC race in Chamonix, and just recently, 1st woman in an international race in Lausanne, Switzerland.

She is an ambassador for the sports brand Salomon and has been featured on billboards and in its stores both in the UK and in Europe.

More details, including a personal piece by Milly on why she is doing this, can be found on Milly's Just Giving page, see link below. The link can be also found on Facebook/Instagram @millyvoiceruns

Please would you consider supporting Milly and her fundraising effort for Macmillan Cancer Support. Donations by cheque, made payable to Macmillan Cancer Support, may be sent to Milly at Fieldfare Cottage, Pett Level TN35 4EH.

Thank you so much.

Public Notice

Burials at St Richard's Church Winchelsea Beach

The Parochial Church Council of Winchelsea is proposing to apply to the Consistory Court of the Diocese of Chichester for legal permission (faculty) to exhume all of the cremated remains interred in the land adjoining the Dogs Hill Road side of St Richard's Church, Winchelsea Beach.

All associated commemorative plaques/memorials will also be removed. It is proposed that all remains will be reinterred in consecrated ground at St Thomas' Church, Winchelsea.

Contact has been made with the next of kin of some of those whose remains are interred. Details of other burials are included below.

If you are the next of kin of any of these persons and wish to make any representation about the proposed exhumation and re-interment, please contact The Reverend Jonathan Meyer by email at revdjonathan@btinternet.com or by post to
The Rev'd Jonathan Meyer,
The Rectory, St. Thomas St.,
Winchelsea TN36 4EB.

This notice will appear in local newspapers with a final deadline a month after its publication, which is likely to be by the end of September.
